THE TERRITORIES.

Walla Walla has a large crop of hoodlums this year.

Excitement about the tin mines still moves the people of Walla Walla.

The exodus of Chinese from the Sound country to the railroad still continues.

Denver City this year has 15,000 people, an increase of 5,000 since one year ago.

It is stated that several hundred head of the very best work and draft horses can be had in the Walla Walla valley at very low figures.

Olympia is turning off schoolmarms at the rate of one a week—that is she sends out one to some of the outside districts. Has done so for two weeks.

A little son of the Mayor of Seattle, aged five years, wandered off into the woods near that place one day last week and was completely lost for several hours. He was found seven miles from home in an exhausted condition.

The Courier learns from San Francisco direct, that the Oregon Steamship Company contemplate within the next two months, to place on the route, between Puget Sound ports and San Francisco the staunch propeller Idaho, now in the dry-dock at the latter place for repairs.

At a regular meeting of Enterprise Lodge No. 2, I. O. O. F., at Walla Walla on Wednesday evening last, D. S. Baldwin and E. M. Philbrook were elected delegates to attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the State of Oregon, which will meet at the Dalles May 19, 1873.

From the Walla Walla Union: "In all parts of the valley crops look unusually well. Most of the grain has been sown some time, and is now up and doing well. In some of the dryer localities rain is beginning to be needed, but as yet no damage has been done by reason of drought.

The Olympia Tribune says. "Messrs. Coggan and Tilley, the proprietors of the regular and opposition lines of stages from Olympia to Tenino, have formed a coalition, and raised the price of tickets from this city out fifty cents. The fare from here to Portland is now seven dollars and a half."

Mr. Garfielde writes that a weekly mail route, from Walla Walla to Fort Colville, via Mullan's bridge, Palouse ferry, and Crab creek, has been established. The law was passed too late for the spring lettings, and as a consequence, Mr. McFadden, or some one else, will have to see about having the mail started over the route, by special contract, probably.

The Walla Walla Statesman says: We hear that Mr. F. Lowden lately sold a band of two year old heifers, at $20 a head. The heifers were of a superior breed, and the low price realized shows how greatly stock has depreciated in this valley. The party from whom we learn the above, says that two year old steers, in excellent condition, can be bought at the rate of $16. This figure is about equal to four cents a pound.

Wm. F. Gwinn, assessor of Walla Walla county, informs the Statesman that the assessment of the county for the current year will foot up inside $2,500,000. Last year the assessment was over $3,000,000. The falling off is due to the depreciation in the value of stock, as indeed all other descriptions of property. For several years property, whether in stock or lands, was held at speculative figures, and the returns of the assessor fail to indicate the actual wealth of the valley.

The Courier of the 21st says: "The Surveyor-General has been instructed to still further curtail the exterior boundaries of the St. James Catholic Mission at Vancouver, so as to include only such lands as were actually enclosed on the 15th day of August, 1848. This will leave the Mission just a small plot of ground, on which the church had been built at that time, instead of the five or six acres, now held and occupied by the Mission and to which, in all justice they would seem to be entitled, and which had been assigned to them by the Surveyor-General.

The Walla Walla Statesman has the following: "We learn that the Indians on the Umatilla Reservation are regularly posted as to the doings of the Modocs, and that the murder of Canby and Thomas was known by them almost immediately after the reception of the news by the whites. Without doubt, some mean white men communicate the news to the red skins. Since the Modoc outbreak, the Indians on the Reservation have been sullen, and when rebuked for their insolence their answers were abusive and defiant. From Lapwai, we have similar reports, the Indians in that quarter being greatly excited, and apparently expecting something of unusual interest to transpire. Recently, one of the Nez Perce chiefs declared that he "wanted no further favors from the Bostons." This sulkiness on the part of the Indians clearly indicates that they are in sympathy with the Modocs, and should the war in that quarter continue for any length of time, we may look for trouble. In view of this bad feeling, the agent should exercise unusual care, and by all manner of means be prepared for a possible Indian outbreak."

The land of Penn has a Legislature whose freaks are almost as interesting as the historic Oregon Legislature. A Harrisburg (Pa.) dispatch of the 4th inst. says:

By far the most disgraceful scene which has occurred in the Legislature for many years took place this afternoon. Elliott had assigned the chair to Newmeyer, of Allegheny, and the public calendar was under consideration. A few bills had been passed, when Elliott made a motion to suspend the orders and proceed to the consideration of Senate bill 137, without giving the title of it. Calls were made for the title, but the Chairman decided that the motion was carried, and the Clerk began the reading of the first section of the bill. Members on both sides of the House called the Chair, but he paid no attention to them. The members crowded around the desk with threatening menaces, and made perfect confusion. Hancock, of Greenwalt, Hanseman, of Lawshe, and Ramey, of Indiana, and Mahon, of Franklin, proclaimed against this gag law. "Shame, shame!" "Put that Speaker out!" Then "Pull him out of that chair!" Thus it went from bad to worse, the angry threats and doleful howls reminding one of the stormy scenes of some revolutionary assembly.

Hancock called on Newmeyer to leave the chair; he had forfeited the respect of the House. The Sergeant-at-Arms was called, but to no avail. Members were not in a mood to be silenced by the ordinary calls. "Let us leave the hall and go out," said Hancock, "if such outrages are to be put upon us." Lawshe, the stalwart member from Clearfield, his face livid with anger, cried out, "If you mean fight, you can have it right here. You have opened the ball, and can have it right now." Ramey, of Indiana, made the hall ring with his fierce calls. Newmeyer tried to explain. He said the House complained of gag law, while it was practicing mob law. Quiet was at last restored, and the bill was made the special order for Tuesday by a vote of 70 to 21.

The boys of Knoxville, hearing that certain lots in that city are to be sold at public auction, held a meeting and expressed their indignation at having their play-ground broken up, as it will be by this sale, by a preamble and series of resolutions, which are published in the Chronicle. The two last resolutions have a martial ring to them, as follows: Resolved 4th, As born sovereigns of this country, we have an inalienable right to the soil of the land. Resolved 5th, Though the pretended proprietors keep in the dark, not daring to sign their names, we will employ all our detective force to ferret them out and expose them to the well-merited scorn of all the boys in the city.

OREGON.

Grand Ronde river remains very high and cannot be forded.

Four or five men from the upper country are in Union county buying cattle, and are getting them cheap.

A. E. Rogers of La Grande, has received a patent for his invention of a new fangled candlestick.

That section of country in and around the Wallowa valley will be thoroughly prospected for gold the present season.

Hon. A. J. Thayer Judge of the Second Judicial District is still dangerously ill at his home in Corvallis with the typhoid fever.

A man was arrested at Gervais on Wednesday on suspicion that he was implicated in the Last Chance saloon robbing, near Salem, on the 21st.

The two cases of rifles ordered sent to Pendleton to be placed in the hands of the settlers there, for their protection in case of difficulty with the Indians, have arrived at their destination.

The Statesman says: "The surveyor was at work Tuesday laying off the site for our State building. Excavations will commence soon. The plans will not be examined or accepted until about the 13th of May."

The Summerville & Walla Walla Wagon Road Company met on the 12th instant and elected five Directors to-wit: B. T. Novil, Henry Myers, J. W. Norville, John McKinnis and J. G. Childers. The company will commence work on the 1st of May.

Grand Master J. T. Apperson of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows instituted a lodge at Independence last Monday the 21st. The name and number is Valley Lodge No. 42. The lodge has six charter members with Mr. W. C. Whitall as N. G.

From the Statesman we learn that Luther King the man who passed examination at Corvallis for shanghaiing a girl 16 years of age, was accepted as a boarder at the Hotel-de-Watkinds last Tuesday until the swallows homeward fly, one year from date.

The La Grande Sentinel of the 19th inst., says: "Miss Ruth Glover, sister of H. B. Glover of this place, arrived in La Grande from England in Wednesday's coach. She comes to fill an engagement of a sacred nature with Arthur Heming, whom she saw for the first time on Thursday. This is certainly romantic.

The epizootic is reported to have arrived at La Grande, brought there by the Northwestern Stage Company's horses. It is of a much milder type than when it first started in the East, and the Stage Company has not lost a horse by the disease. It has now disappeared on the road from Boise City to the railroad.

Since the game law went into operation in this State, in some neighborhoods it seems as if the wild Spanish cattle, or race of bovines well known to early settlers have become very plentiful and though the older ones are so wild that they are seldom seen, a great many of the calves are killed and their flesh which resembles venison very much, is called wild veal.

The Democrat has these good words for Baker City: "There is quite a large membership of the various religious denominations in our city, and the morals of our citizens are good. We have a healthy and thriving lodge of Masons, of Odd Fellows, of Champions of the Red Cross and a Good Templars Lodge. And take Baker City as it is, it is a pleasant place to reside in."

The Sentinel says: "Messrs. Tatum and Stott returned to their new discovery of placer mines this week, taking with them from La Grande the necessary grub and implements for immediate operations. These mines are located on Wolf creek, twenty-five miles from La Grande and twelve miles from the road leading from La Grande to Baker City, and are reported to be about twelve miles in extent."

Some time since, two well dressed and well mounted men stopped at a house on Wild Horse creek, in Umatilla county, for a few days. Suddenly they disappeared, forgetting to pay their board bill. At the same time they disappeared, two fine horses were missed in the neighborhood. One of those men left at the boarding place a Bible and a psalm book. It is surmised that he had been playing the role of traveling preacher, and thought to vary the monotony by stealing horses. It is well known that there are thieves around, and it is just as well to watch them a little.

Robt. McAllen was arrested in Idaho Territory, and brought to Baker City on Friday, the 16th, on the charge of being accessory to the murder of Geo. W. Horner. He had a preliminary examination and was acquitted on that charge, but the justice held him for larceny. J. M. Shepherd was appointed by the court to defend the prisoner. Upon the decision of the court, to bind the prisoner over on the charge of larceny, being announced his attorney took exceptions to the ruling of the court, and asked that trial for larceny be had immediately. The court took the matter under advisement. He is the fourth man who has been arrested on a charge of having been implicated in the murder of Horner and all have been discharged.

Beecher on Music.

In a lecture on "Music in Churches," delivered a short time since, Mr. Beecher said:

An orchestra depends upon the moods of fifty men. The organ has no moods. There it stands, the same yesterday, to-day and forever, I hope. It may not have that certain elasticity that belongs to an orchestra; but, then, no orchestra that ever lived had the breadth, the majesty, the grandeur that belong to the prince of instruments. There is very little that Von Weber ever wrote that is not fit by nature for the church. Much of Mendelssohn is also spiritual. I think you could not find anything in Beethoven from beginning to end that would not fit the church if readapted. So of Mozart, Rossini and many others. There is music, however, that is not only gay but frisky and frivolous, and much of it is introduced into the church just because it happens to be in vogue. There is the trick of beginning with a broad musical beginning, then letting people hear dangling and trickling along down, some air from "Il Trovatore" to tickle the fancy, all the time covered up by the bass. Playing in the house of God the waltz that the young folks danced to the night before, and the fashionable operatic music, is desecration and dishonor, and a minister ought to know enough to stop it. The minister should be the bishop of the organ and the organist, too.

Says the Richmond Dispatch: "Within the past twelve months, individuals bearing the following distinguished names, have been brought before the Police Court and punished according to their various offences: Ethan Allen, Thomas Jefferson and Ben. McCullough, for fighting; John Randolph and John B. Alley, for theft; John Adams, for felony; Henry Clay, for beating his wife; Wm. C. Bryant, for an unfortunate amour; Samuel Johnson and Robert E. Lee, for vagrancy; John J. Crittenden, James Madison, Thomas Payne and John Randolph, for being drunk; and Charles J. Fox and Edmund Yates, for using profane language on the streets. Napoleon Bonaparte has been three times brought to the bar of justice, and eleven persons bearing the name of the Father of our country, have occupied the prisoner's box."

This is the way the Iowa Code Commissioners declare the list of exemptions from execution: "Fifty sheep, six stands of bees, and the wool thereon." The juvenile farmer will have a "hot" time trying to shear these latter pets, and will probably go home shorn.

EASTERN DATES TO APRIL 23.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The New Trade Dollar.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Director of the Mint has fixed the charge for coining the new trade dollar at one-half a cent apiece, the lowest possible rate under law. Great expectations are entertained of the trade dollar as a means of creating a home demand for bullion, and keeping gold in the country.

The Republics of Hayti and Ecuador and another South American Republic are anxious that their coinage shall be executed by the United States, but as there is no law which will permit this to be done, the authorities cannot comply. It is probable that Congress will authorize such services.

New Gold Note Bank.

The Comptroller of Currency has granted permission for the organization of a new Gold Note bank at Santa Barbara, Cal., as soon as the stock shall have been deposited and United States bonds to the extent required by law. The capital stock is fixed at $100,000. The officers of the bank are Mortimer Cook, President, owning 950 out of 1,000 shares, and A. L. Lincoln, Cashier.

Decision by the Secretary of Interior.

The decision in the Keystone (Cal.) Mining case by the Secretary of the Interior has been deferred by application of the Rose party, for further hearing, but it is expected next week. In the meantime Assistant Attorney General Smith, has given the Secretary an official opinion strongly adverse to the Rose claim and sustaining the decision of Commissioner Drummond in favor of the Keystone Company and Amador town site.

No Official News from the Modocs.

Gen. Sherman is still without any additional dispatches from the Modoc country, but does not doubt that the military will destroy the Indians, although other officials do not share that opinion. Some surprise is manifested at the army headquarters that the Indian supply of ammunition continues to hold out, and the impression is very strong that they must have been supplied with a large quantity by Indian traders.

The consolidated Company, it is provided, shall operate the Hoosac tunnel and its approaches, but all railroad corporations connecting therewith, or with the Boston and Northwestern Railroad, shall possess the right of sending their cars, passengers and freight through the tunnel upon the usual terms and with equal facility. Garney, head sawyer, undertook to pull out a sliver which was fastened in between the large circular saw and the saw frame. His fingers became wedged in between the revolving saw and frame, and he was unable to extricate them. He shouted to Price to come and knock off the guys to relieve him from his perilous position. Price, who was greatly excited, instead of knocking off the guys, started to run back to tell the engineer to stop the machinery, when he accidentally fell partly across the edge of the saw. His body was nearly severed in two, his bowels being torn out. The unfortunate man breathed for about five minutes, but never spoke. Garney, the head sawyer, had three fingers badly lacerated.

GENERAL CROOK'S ORDER ANNOUNCING A CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF ARIZONA,
Prescott, April 7, 1873.

General Orders No. 12.—It is with pleasure the announcement is made of the surrender of large numbers of Indians lately hostile, against whom military operations have been prosecuted for the past four months, and the assurance through the chiefs and head men of these tribes of their desire and the desire of their people to conclude a permanent peace. Their propositions are made in the midst of a campaign in which they have been severely punished, and the Department commander, believing in their sincerity, announces and hereby declares peace with the tribes referred to.

THE BASIS OF THIS PEACE

Is simply that these Indians shall cease plundering and murdering, remain upon their several reservations, and comply with the regulations made by the Government through the authorized agents for them. So long, therefore, as they remain true to their agreements they will be protected by the military of this Department in the enjoyment of all their rights under the law. After a sufficient time shall have elapsed to enable the friends of any renegades still at large to bring them in upon their proper reservations, the post commanders will use the troops at their command to pursue and force them in; and in case any such straggling bands continue to remain absent without authority, they will be forced to surrender or be destroyed.

By command of Brevet Major General Crook.
A. H. NICKERSON,
Captain 23d Infantry, A. D. C. and A. A. A.

THE POET WHITTIER CONFUSED.—An amusing story is told of the poet Whittier, who is as modest as he is gifted. He was in the city not long since, and went to hear Rev. E. H. Chapin speak a lecture, somewhere up-town. The clergyman was eloquent, as usual; his discourse, interlarded with highly-wrought passages of rhetoric, closing with a stirring poetical quotation, was so well delivered that the Quaker bard applauded with the rest. Some one sitting next to him inquired, "Do you know, Mr. Whittier, who is the author of that extract?" "No, I do not. It sounds familiar, and I like the sentiment." "Why, the lines are yours, Mr. Whittier. You must remember them. They are from your famous anti-slavery odes." "So they are," said Whittier, after a little reflection, and blushing like a school-girl caught reading her first love-letter. "I really did not recall them. Indeed, they sounded so much better than they ever sounded before that it is not strange that I failed to recognize them." The poet, thoroughly sincere, did not recover for some time from the embarrassment of outwardly acclaiming his own composition; but has now come to regard it as so good a joke that he tells it of himself.—New York Letter to Chicago Tribune.

IT WASN'T HER HUSBAND, AFTER ALL.—A story has gone the rounds of literary gossip, says the New York Tribune, about an attached pair of names not unknown to fame, who went to board where people also went who were literary and of good taste. The lady, thinking that as she and her husband were all in all to each other, it was as well they should remain so, desired of the hostess that there might be no introductions to the other boarders, which was observed. Various tender passages between the amiable pair on their way to and from the dining-room edified the family during the season. In time a Boston man came to board, and on his way to the basement at dinner, going down late he heard a light laugh behind him, and a figure, not so light as the laugh, sprang on his shoulders and claimed a ride down stairs. The Boston man took things coolly, carried his burden down into the dining-room, and shot her into a vacant seat at the table. The lady looked up to find her husband already there before her, and every eye was turned to watch these extraordinary proceedings. There was nothing to be done but to burst into tears, which she did.

A CITY ON ICE.—The Bay City (Michigan) Herald says: Perhaps not many of our citizens are aware that a veritable city on ice exists on the frozen waters of Saginaw Bay; but such is the case. It consists of fishermen's shanties, about three hundred in number, extending about ten miles on the bay. They have a regular municipal government, with Ed. Lewis, formerly of this city, for Mayor. Any violation of the ordinances of the community is punished by ducking the offender in the cold waters of the lake, through holes cut in the ice. Provision is made for the visitor, there being one or two hotels and a number of saloons. The occupation of the inhabitants is principally fishing, vast numbers of which are caught. The city is named Lewisville, in honor of the Mayor. The little huts, laid out in regular blocks and dotting the ice as far as the eye can reach, present a novel appearance.

A Little Common Sense about Common Schools

There may be such a thing as overdoing even in so praiseworthy a matter as the public schools. We state this very palpable truism not without being conscious that ... though it is an opinion entertained by every person of common understanding, it is a good opinion for a demagogue's wedge and that this instrument is habitually inserted into all available openings. It has become the popular thing to endorse every measure that proposes to add to the facilities for popular education, and generally speaking, all such measures deserve endorsement and encouragement. The standard of public school instruction has always been too low, and those who insist upon its elevation and upon so increasing the educational facilities afforded by the public schools as to afford an opportunity for every boy and girl in the Republic to acquire all the school training necessary to enable them to take the positions in society to which their natural gifts adapt them, are in our judgment the best friends of the Republic, and not of the Republic alone as an aggregated community, but of those persons upon whom the burden of this public education falls—the tax payers. This opinion we base upon the established fact that virtue, industry and intelligence on the one hand, and vice, indolence and ignorance on the other are so related to the question of popular education that a community that withholds the means necessary to give a good elementary education to its youth will have to pay the amount held back with double interest, to protect itself against vices and crimes which a reasonable training of the heads and hearts of the perpetrators in their youth would have prevented. In other words it is cheaper to educate people than to convict and punish them. Hence the public school becomes an instrument of public economy, in addition to the direct benefits and pleasures it confers on those whose circumstances in life preclude them from enjoying the advantages of education in private schools.

This view of the policy of the public schools, puts the right of taxation upon its true basis. There is no natural and inherent obligation resting upon my rich neighbor to educate my children because I am unable to educate them. It would be very humane and generous of him to do so, but I have no natural or absolute right to demand it of him. The law of abstract justice is satisfied when he educates his own children, and, aside from the matter of protecting himself and all others similarly situated against the vices into which my ignorant children may run and the injury they may do to other individuals, he is under no obligation to society to contribute any part of the means to educate them. In other words the right of taxation, except for purposes beneficial to the taxed, as a body, does not exist. The question of public schools is, therefore, a question of public weal not of private benefaction.

There need be no fear that, for some time to come, at least, the standard of public school education in this city or State, will be raised too high. We have not observed any very alarming symptoms of over-culture in the youth who attend our best-graded public schools. But when the ideas of the Mechanics' Deliberative Assembly of San Francisco, as just published, shall be proposed here, it looks to us as if the stopping place will have been reached, whether that scheme shall be backed up by "seven editors and nine able lawyers," or by even a greater number of able lawyers and editors. That association have deputed these editors and able lawyers to urge upon the Legislature of California the necessity of so "improving the system of common schools as to give the pupils an opportunity of learning trades." It would seem as if a boy who had received a good elementary or academic education at the public expense, might reasonably be expected to enter some establishment as an apprentice and serve his term for the wages of an apprentice in the regular way, if he is anxious to learn a trade. When this new theory becomes a part of the common school system, we suppose the Government will in due time construct machine shops, woolen mills, sash and door factories, smelting works and rolling mills, as adjuncts to each schoolhouse, and charge the cost of constructing and operating these to the apparatus account. We do not mean to trifle with so important a subject, but we cannot see how these youthful aspirants for the position of skillful artizans are to master their chosen trades without the apparatus necessary to that practice which alone makes perfect. This California proposition, is simply the prevalent false theory of the basis of taxation for school purposes, blossomed out. For the sake of an important principle we trust the frosts of a little cool common sense may prevent its fructifying.

The Judiciary Committee of the Pennsylvania Constitutional Convention have presented an amendment which provides that the Supreme Court of the State shall consist of seven Judges, nominated by the Governor with the consent of two thirds of the Senate and appointed and commissioned by him. Their terms of office shall be 21 years and they shall not be reappointed. The Circuit Court shall consist of nine Judges, eight of whom shall be elected by the electors of the Commonwealth, their terms of office shall be 10 years. All other Judges, required to be learned in the law, shall be elected in their respective districts, and shall hold office for ten years. They may be removed by the Governor, for reasonable cause, on the address of each branch of the Legislature. District Courts are abolished. Considerable opposition is shown over the provision giving the Governor power to appoint the Supreme Judges. The amendment looks to a complete reorganization of the Judiciary system of Pennsylvania.

The Louisville Courier Journal says that when General Fremont was a candidate for President, one of his ardent admirers, Mr Hewitt, of Knoxville, Ill, made a vow not to shave or cut his hair until Fremont was President. His present capillary attractions are said to be enormous. The Louisville paper thinks that "as a French court has sentenced Gen Fremont to five years imprisonment for railroad financiering of doubtful character Hewitt will have a good opportunity to show his loyalty to his chief by saving his hair to make a wig for the General at the end of the five years' imprisonment he is sentenced to undergo—provided the Frenchmen ever catch him which we don't believe.

It is understood that the Western Union Telegraph Company will extend their wires to San Bernardino, California.

Pulpit Transcendentalism

A Boston pastor recently delivered a sermon on the profound text "Tragedies of the ocean and their promised removal when there is no more sea." In his peroration he remarked: "When civilization is completed by the advancement of art and science and humanity is ruled by a pure morality and religion, so that each individual is the center of consciousness for the whole race and the whole race has for its organ the sweet sympathies of divine nature, and recognizes no invidious limitation ... then in the profound ... of the word there will be no more sea. Knowledge, patience and care will avert the calamities that now befall ... nature, and plenty, peace and harmony will prevent the passions that now drive us wild and shatter us in fragmentary decay; all mankind thinking and breathing in unison will be moved by the inspiration of God, the dream of humanity shall be fulfilled and this world become part of heaven."

To all this thing we yield acquiescence. We cannot understand it, but so long as Rev Mr Alger does, we accept it with a mental reservation just as one inwardly murmurs at Emerson, or the following from Carlyle, which we put against Alger's word: "Understand it well, the Thing thou beholdest, that Thing is an Action, the product and expression of exerted Force: the All of Things is an infinite conjugation of the verb To do. Shoreless Fountain-Ocean of Force, of power to do wherein Force rolls and circles billowing, many-streamed, harmonious, wide as Immensity, deep as Eternity, beautiful and terrible, not to be comprehended: this is what man names Existence and Universe: this thousand-tinted Flame-Image, at once veil and revelation, reflex such as he in his poor brain and heart can paint of One Unnameable dwelling in inaccessible light. From beyond the star galaxies, from before the Beginning of Days it billows and rolls,—round thee, nay thyself art of it, in this point of space where thou now standest, in this moment which thy clock measures!!!"

It is common to call this sort of thing by the name of Transcendentalism, but there is a better and shorter name, of two syllables.

A Louisville (Ky) paper thinks that members of the Arkansas Legislature are explicit if not parliamentary. When the bill was introduced and passed the other day, that the State surrender her mortgage bonds amounting to $5,200,000, to the railroads which had received the aid, a Mr Cunningham arose in his seat and explained why he voted against the bill. "I have been cut off," said he, "from voting on my own amendment, through a motion of the Speaker, by means that are beneath contempt. I will be heard upon a hundred hustings in favor of taxing these roads any way, and of regulating freights, legislating the bribers who steal the people's money into poverty, and repudiation of these bonds. I appeal from a bought Legislature to an oppressed people. A war now begins between these roads and the people. Let it come. See who first dies!"

The Sacramento Union in an article on "Our Indian Peace Policy," reminds those journals which have insisted on the execution of the Modoc murderers, that the peace policy "has made friends of the powerful and warlike Sioux" and the Apaches. True enough, but only after three score of the Sioux had been hanged for the massacre at New Ulm and along the prairies of Minnesota. And as for the Apaches—well, General Crook's recent order, announcing their subjugation, is answer sufficient. To the remainder of the article, including the broad generality, that "modern civilization has not always been as true to principle as that of the Romans," we yield a graceful assent.

We understand the committee to whom were referred the various matters in connection with the management of the school district, are preparing to make a very complete report, showing in detail, all the facts necessary to enable the voters of the district to judge for themselves what rate of taxation it will be expedient to adopt. It is believed the facts will justify the laying of the rate very much below the four mills estimate of the old board, and we hope the report of the committee will confirm this belief. It would certainly be a very welcome change of programme to those who have to pay the taxes.

An eastern paper says that the Commissioner of the General Land Office considers the present pre emption law an incentive to perjury. He thinks there are very few instances in which the settler has been a bona fide resident on his land for the term required by law. He will therefore recommend the abolition of the pre emption law as it now stands and the union of the better features with the homestead law.

The Washington Chronicle says that the Surgeon General has begun the publication of the war records of his Department, and thinks that they will be "of much value to the profession through Christendom. The two large quarto volumes now being distributed as a Public Document, are alike creditable to the Medical and Surgical Department of the Army and to the Congressional Printer."

The Louisville Courier Journal dubs Mr H W Beecher "the master sensationalist of the American pulpit," and advises him to go after enrolling the Brooklyn people in his new Society pledged "not to cheat nor to use vulgar and profane language, etc., to Washington where he will find employment that will keep him busy during the term of his natural life."

Minister Mori has presented to our Bureau of Education a copy of the recent decree of the Mikado on education in Japan. It is a curiosity of literature being written in Japanese, on the finest silk tissue that has ever been produced in Japan. The autograph signature of the Mikado is appended.

It is said that Frank Leslie is about to start a mammoth illustrated daily paper that will utterly distance all competitors. He is encouraged to this venture by the wonderful success of the New York Graphic which eastern papers tell us is realizing large profits.

A gentleman who has recently had an interview with Attorney General Williams reports that officer as saying that he is endeavoring to get the Credit Mobilier suits commenced, that they are likely to last a lifetime, and the sooner they are started the better.

From Glasgow comes the announcement that Miss Ann Wallace, a lineal descendant of William Wallace, the Scottish patriot, has just died in that city at the advanced age of one hundred and three years.

Up to 11 o'clock last night no courier from the Lava Bed had arrived at Yreka. The regular courier will be due this evening, we understand, when we shall doubtless receive interesting intelligence.

Indian Troubles East of the Mountains

Through the courtesy of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company's officers we are enabled to give our readers all that has yet transpired in relation to the supposed discontent among the Indians in Eastern Oregon and Washington Territory. It will be seen that while there is undoubtedly some ground of apprehension, there is nothing like conclusive evidence of hostile intentions on the part of the Indians. Even the driving off of cattle in the Yakima valley does not necessarily imply a conspiracy to murder the white settlers. Any unusual behavior by the Indians just at this juncture would naturally be construed into evidence of hostile purposes, and we trust it may turn out that the alarm of the settlers is groundless. Still it behooves them to be on their guard.

The dispatches that have come over the Navigation Company's wire are as follows:

DALLES, April 24, 1873.

R. B. H[illegible] received a letter last evening from Mr Lockwood of Yakima, saying the Indians had run off Wm Miller's cattle. Mr Miller is located near Cox's Ferry, on the Yakima.

Three families have come into town from Klickitat on account of the actions of the Indians there. They say they are insolent and cross and these families were afraid to stay among them.

SECOND DISPATCH.

DALLES, April 24, 1873, 1:45 P M.

A man just arrived from Yakima confirms Lockwood's report to H[illegible] about Miller's cattle being run off, and also says that Miller was killed. Will see who he is and get more particulars.

THIRD DISPATCH.

DALLES, April 24, 4:30 P M.

Tried to see the man who brought the news of Miller being killed, but could not find him. Saw half a dozen who had heard the report. Think it is only a false impression of H[illegible]'s news. Saw his letter, and it said nothing about Miller being killed—simply that they had run off cattle.

FROM SOUTHEASTERN OREGON.

DALLES, April 23, 1873.

Ad Edgar has just got in from Camp Harney, and says the Indians have all left around there. Don't know where they have gone, but very few of them to be seen now.

Life as I Find It.

BY MARK TWAIN.

The man lives in Philadelphia, who, when young and poor, entered a bank, and says he "Please, sir, don't you want a boy?" And the stately personage said "No, little boy, I don't want a little boy."

The little boy whose heart was too full for utterance, chewing a piece of licorice stick he had bought with a cent stolen from his pious aunt with sobs plainly audible, and with great globules of water running down his cheeks glided silently down the marble steps of the bank. Bending his noble form, the bank man dodged behind a door, for he thought the little boy was going to shy a stone at him. But the little boy picked up something, and stuck it in his poor but ragged jacket.

"Come here, little boy," and the little boy did come here, and the bank man said "Lo, what pickest thou up?" And he answered and replied "A pin." And the bank man said "Little boy, are you good?" and he said he was. And the bank man said "How do you vote?—excuse me, do you go to Sunday School?" and he said he did.

Then the bank man took down a pen made of pure gold, and flowing with pure ink, and he wrote on a piece of paper "St Peter," and he asked the little boy what it stood for, and he said "Salt Peter." Then the bank man said it meant "Saint Peter." Then the little boy said "Oh!"

Then the bank man took the little boy to his bosom, and the little boy said "Oh!" again, for he squeezed him.

Then the bank man took the little boy into partnership, and gave him half the profits and all the capital, and he married the bank man's daughter, and now all he has is all his and his own, too.

My uncle told me this story, and I spent six weeks in picking up pins in front of a bank. I expected the bank man would call me in and say "Little boy, are you good?" and I was going to say "Yes," and when he asked me what "St. John" stood for, I was going to say "Salt John." But the bank man wasn't anxious to have a partner, and I guess the daughter was a son, for one boy says he to me "Little boy, what's that you're picking up?" Says I, awful meekly, "Pins." Says he "Let's see 'em." And he took 'em, and I took off my cap, all ready to go in the bank, and become a partner, and marry his daughter. But I didn't get an invitation. He said "Those pins belong to the bank, and if I catch you hanging around here any more, I'll set the dog on you!" Then I left, and the mean old cuss kept the pins. Such is life as I find it.

Mr Beecher's Conversazione

The New York correspondent of the Boston Journal writes of Henry Ward Beecher's Friday evening talks:

One of the charms of the Friday night meeting is its social character. Whatever mood the pastor happens to be in he displays to his people. He treats his congregation as if it were a family. Sometimes he is very tender, and then the people cry, sometimes he is very genial and then they laugh. The weekly meeting of Plymouth church unite the prayer meeting and lecture. But Mr Beecher does not lecture, he only talks. The talks are seldom over twenty minutes, and are always crisp, spirited and entertaining, and often in the highest degree emotional. The room is large holding near one thousand persons. It is as plain as a pikestaff, and is a good type of Puritan austerity, yet the meeting is anything but austere. Every seat is occupied, camp-stools are in demand and the parlors are thrown open. Mr Beecher comes in a few minutes before service, disrobes himself of his overshoes and surplus clothing, pitches his hat one side, rubs his hands, and warms himself over the register. His coat is of the clerical cut, yet in it he looks like a business man. His hair flies over his head in all directions. Promptly on the minute he seats himself in his chair, with nothing in front, and the audience get a good look at him from his boots to his hair. He puts on no devout airs, does not sit down and seem to be in private devotion, but takes his hymn book as a mechanic would a chisel and proceeds to business. The other night his talk was on honesty. When the meeting was thrown open an awkward silence pervaded the assembly. In a tone indicating how provoked he was, the pastor said if he had been talking about heaven, piety, faith, or any so-called religious themes, there would have been plenty of people ready to occupy the time, but now that he had been talking about truth and honesty, no one had anything to say. He was glad that there was so much honesty among his people, and that nobody had any difficulties in that direction. This brought the senior deacon to his feet, and his rising was greeted with laughter.

The Washington Chronicle says of the after-dinner story which was published in our columns yesterday, under the head of "Jeff Davis Escape":

We are authorized to say that Judge Clifford, of the Supreme Court, was never present at any consultation with Attorney General Speed or with any other person in respect to the prosecution of Jefferson Davis for treason, and that he never discussed at a dinner table or in any other place the reasons assigned for the abandonment of that prosecution, as he does not possess any knowledge upon the subject. The Judge Clifford referred to in the Charleston News was probably the Hon John H Clifford, ex Governor of Massachusetts.

The Missouri Republican says:

The Washington Chronicle says that the purity of ex Senator Patterson's life has been "as the streams flowing from melting snows lying on the mountain tops hid in the clouds." Just so. It's a purity that begins by lying on the mountain tops.

Whereupon the Chronicle tartly retorts:

The inspiration of the Missouri Republican's Democratic "lying" is doubtless from a lower region, where the liquid streams are warmer than melting snows.

"Doing good by stealth" is the way the Albany Journal describes Tweed's generosity in giving away Erie funds to the poor of his ward.

WE HAVE SENT GREAT NUMBERS OF THESE excellent Watches to our customers in the Pacific States, and all have given satisfaction. We have for several years sold more American Watches than any other house in the country, either wholesale or retail, and the reason is that our prices are low and we only sell a good article. Our plan is to send single Watches by Express to any place, no matter how remote, with the bill to collect on delivery, to let the purchaser open the package and examine the Watch, and be perfectly satisfied before paying the bill; and we offer, for any Watch that does not prove satisfactory, to

Refund the Money

If you will write for our Descriptive Price List, we will mail it to you without expense, and from it you will see that you can buy a genuine Waltham Watch of us at the lowest possible New York prices, and without any risk whatever. We send so many Watches to the Pacific States that we always have 4, 5, 6 and 8 oz cases on hand, so as to fill orders promptly. When you write, mention that you saw this notice in the Portland (Or) Oregonian, and if you want reference we can name persons in every county on the coast that have had Watches from us. Do not let distance or your out-of-the-way location deter you from writing for the Price List.

FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 25, 1873.

FOUND AT LAST.—The Walla Walla Statesman says: After having a Mr Reaves ex-Sheriff of Washington county, Oregon passed through this city on his return from Lewiston, where he had been with a requisition from the Governor calling for the person of [illegible] Meek, who, about three and a half years ago, killed Jake Smith, at Hillsboro Oregon. After the killing Meek escaped, and until now has evaded the hands of the law, although it is said he has spent a part of every winter within five miles of the homicide. Last June he passed through this place and went to Lapwai where he has since been employed [illegible] since, he was implicated in breaking into the Commissary store house, and was arrested and thrown into jail, where he now awaits his trial. He has been going under the assumed name of George Brogan. When Reaves arrived at Lewiston he found that his requisition was unavailable as Meek had a prior engagement to meet in the District Court of Idaho at the May term, when he will be tried for the alleged crime of burglary. We have no knowledge as to whether he be guilty of either charge or not and would not express an opinion if we had one. He is a son of Colonel Joseph Meek, and is well educated. His father informs us that a requisition for the young man was unnecessary, as he intended to take his son down to Oregon with him when he would stand his trial for the homicide."

A SACHEM CAPTURED.—A letter was received by a gentleman in this city on Wednesday evening from the wife of Agent Wilbur at Simcoe. The writer stated that a few days previous to the date of the letter, Agent Wilbur had started for the Palouse country for the purpose of adjusting some difficulties then existing among the Indians in that locality. We learn that a letter was received a few days since at the Dalles from a resident of Yakima. The letter stated that Agent Wilbur had just returned to Fort Simcoe bringing with him Smohole, the old Indian chief at Priest Rapids, whom he had captured at that point on his return from the Palouse country. It is stated, in addition, that the Indians have been collecting for some time at Priest Rapids to the number of two thousand or more, and are manifesting symptoms of disaffection, which is causing some apprehensions among the whites in that region. These Indians have frequently indulged in their favorite war dances of late, and have grown quite insolent toward white settlers and the Agent. It is thought that Smohole has been using his influence against the whites, and secretly instigating his followers to acts of hostility. By getting possession of the person of this old Sachem, Agent Wilbur doubtless thinks that he may be able to enforce obedience among the Indians, and effectually quell any hostile design on their part.

CABINET ADDITIONS.—Mr David Raffety, of East Portland, has recently made several valuable additions to his cabinet of natural and mineral curiosities. Among the late acquisitions we note the vertebra and rib of a large whale which was stranded some years ago on the Tillamook coast. The single rib of this whale measures 6½ feet and the vertebra weighs about 10 pounds. Also some fossils from near Boise City, of the Trey [illegible] Emorys of the mollusk family. Chronologically these fossils are older than any which have yet been discovered, as they belong to the Triassic period. A gentleman in San Francisco also sent to Mr Raffety a few weeks since two small pieces of marble taken by a tourist from the ruins of Pompeii, and a small coin picked up near the base of one of the Egyptian pyramids. Several other important specimens, natural and mineral, have been received. At the present rate at which his specimens are increasing Mr. Raffety will be compelled to enlarge his cabinet room.

MONEY DRIFT.—From the office of Wells, Fargo & Co., in this city, we have obtained the following, showing the shipment of currency, coin, bullion and dust from the office, for the quarter ending March 31. January—currency, gold notes or bonds, $15,817 25, gold coin, $166 204 50, bullion, amalgam or dust, $14,729.

February—currency, gold notes or bonds, $22,628 4, gold coin, $14,776 10, bullion, amalgam or dust, $20,525, silver coin, $758 75.

March—currency, gold notes or bonds, $16,-512, gold coin, $111,320, bullion, amalgam or dust, $21,671 60, silver coin, $6,363 50.

Total—currency, gold notes or bonds, $35,017 70; gold coin, $292,300 00; bullion, amalgam or dust, $10,116 60, silver coin, $7,102 25.

It will be observed that the silver shipment is quite small, which is accounted for from the fact that silver is frequently forwarded with gold coin.

NEW MAP.—We were shown yesterday a new map of Portland, which has just been finished at the office of the City Surveyor, for the use of that officer. In all respects this new map is superior to any yet drafted, being larger and more complete in its details. It is five feet wide and seventeen and half feet long, and embraces all the recent additions made to the city, compiled from the last surveys and field notes. This map includes a complete and correct plat of the Portland Homestead and Caruthers' Additions, as surveyed by the South Portland Real Estate Association. All the lands included in the corporate limits are shown, and the outlying environs of the city. The map was drawn by Mr H J Chapman, under the superintendency of the City Surveyor. The work is finely executed, and reflects credit upon the skillful draughtsman. Twenty days were required to complete the map.

SALMON THIEVES.—Two young hoodlums of Astoria broke into the steamship company's wharf a few nights ago and stole therefrom a case of canned salmon. These young thieves after removing the box some distance from the wharf broke it open, and proceeded to gorge themselves with the contents of several cans. After satisfying their interior cravings the boys hid the case, and the following day endeavored to sell the remainder of the fish. The box was missed, search was made, and the theft tracked up to the guilty parties. A warrant was issued and the culprits were taken into custody. The trial came off on last Tuesday, which resulted in each boy getting fined $25. The parents of the boys were compelled to pay the assessment levied by the court, and the youthful offenders were released.

OIL AND WATER SKETCHES.—Mr. E T Coleman, the well known and gifted artist, has just completed two sketches taken from Portland. One, a superb oil sketch, represents Mount Hood, and a portion of the Cascade range for some distance north and south. The view was taken from the railroad bridge in the southern part of the city, and includes in its range a narrow strip of land west of the river, the Wallamet, and the whole stretch of country to the eastward as far back as Mount Hood. The other sketch, painted in water colors, is a view of Portland taken from the water works south of the city, looking down the river. This view is handsomely sketched and shows to a good advantage all the warehouses, wharves and shipping along the city front. Both pictures are very creditable efforts.

EARLY CABBAGE.—On an old farm situated on the Columbia river, a short distance above St Helens, a patch of cabbage has been growing for some months, in fact during the past winter. This old farm has not been cultivated for a long time, having been abandoned some ten years ago. For several years past, a patch of cabbage have grown, matured, and the seeds ripened each successive season without the slightest cultivation. At the present time these vegetables are said to have attained a degree of maturity fitting them for cooking. Crews on a number of the small steamers which ply the waters of the lower Columbia very often gather these spontaneous vegetables and prepare them for table service.

TIMELY EXTINGUISHED.—Yesterday morning while the gale was at its height, the large saw mill below the city narrowly escaped being destroyed by fire. Sparks from the smoke stack were borne on the wind and alighted in a pile of dry shavings near which were piled large quantities of lumber. Fanned by the wind a blaze sprang fiercely up, which would have been communicated to the lumber in a few minutes had not the element been timely discovered. An alarm was sounded, the large force pump set in motion, and soon three well directed streams of water were precipitated on the incipient fire. Three minutes after the flame had been discovered every spark was extinguished and a great peril escaped.

RESIGNED.—The Advocate says that Miss P Levy, who has so acceptably filled the position of teacher of French and German in the Portland Academy and Female Seminary for the last nine months has resigned, with a view of returning to her home in Alsace, Germany, where her aged parents now reside. Miss Levy will depart by the next steamer. She goes with the highest testimonials of commendation from her fellow teachers, and the best wishes of all the pupils of the Institution.

BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.—A number of German Catholics of this city met last Saturday in the St Joseph's Parochial School for the purpose of perfecting the organization of the St. Joseph's German Catholic Benevolent Society, and, after adopting a constitution and the reading of the proposed by laws an election was held for officers for the first fiscal year with the following result: President John Donnerberger, Vice President, M Richards; Secretary, R Kartzel; Treasurer, S Helbock; Messenger Frank Mangold. The by laws and other rules necessary to govern the Society, will be adopted and the election of standing committees had at the next meeting which will take place at the same place, on Sunday, May 4th, at two o'clock P M.

[illegible] GRADERS.—Large quantities of rice and other articles of food are being conveyed to Kalama almost every day on the Fannie Troup. From that point they are forwarded by rail to Tenino and from thence distributed among the different camps of graders. There are at least 600 Chinese graders at work beyond the present terminus of the railroad.

A MISTAKE.—A friend writing from Westport says that Captain West did not lose his thumb by accident as we stated a few days ago, but it was one of the boys at the fishery who had part of a finger cut off. He says the business at Westport is in full blast with 20 men employed directly and indirectly.

Rev W D Owen, late pastor of the Christian Church at Salem. This gentleman will take his departure on the Oriflamme this evening for the Eastern States, whither he goes to permanently reside. Mr Owen is recognized wherever he has spoken as a finished, scholarly and eloquent speaker.

CONFIRMATORY DEEDS.—Since the 1st of December last the Lownsdale heirs have made over one hundred confirmatory deeds to lots in this city as appears from the record in the Clerk's office, and still they come.

AMUSEMENTS

This evening the new military company, the City Rifles, organized about a month ago, will give their first grand promenade, concert and ball at the Skating Rink. The Company have omitted no effort to make the occasion one of the great social events of the season. Aside from the superior attractions offered in the programme, the ball and concert ought to meet with a liberal patronage at the hands of the public, as the proceeds will be applied by the Company towards the purchase of a new uniform. The Company is in a state of incipiency, and deserves the hearty support and countenance of our citizens. A number of persons have volunteered their services this evening, among which are the East Portland brass band (of twenty pieces), Portland Turn Verein Singing Section, Messrs Miller and Marks, the gymnasts, and Carl Bosco, the illusionist. The following will be the programme: "City Rifles," March (composed expressly for the occasion by Charles Bray), East Portland Band; 'Burlesque ating Carnival, Portland Adepts; Singing, Turn Verein Singing Section; Andante (Auber), East Portland Brass Band. Fifteen minutes with Carl Bosco. Waltz, now (Shire), East Portland Brass Band; Singing, Turn Verein Singing Section. Messrs. Miller and Marks will appear in their perilous aerial ascension on double trapeze. Galop (F. Paudert), East Portland Brass Band. The whole affair will conclude with a grand ball.

REMARKABLE COINCIDENCE.

PORTLAND, April 24, 1873.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In the Bulletin of yesterday morning I find the following:

"THE WRONG PARTIES.—A lady residing on Clay street, in the vicinity of the water works, was repeatedly annoyed on Sunday last by young hoodlums, who rang her door bell and hid beneath the steps when the lady came to answer their summons. The act was repeated several times, until finally she seated herself near the door to await developments. Soon again was heard the ominous peal and opening the door quickly she caught the intruder by the coat collar and shook him right lustily, exclaiming, 'Ha! ha! my little rascal, I caught you that time.' Imagine her surprise in glancing up to see a worthy minister who, it seems had stopped to make a pastoral call, and had been received in such an emphatic manner. They were both equally astonished, but explanation soon followed and everything was satisfactorily settled, but the lady says she will be more careful who she shakes after this."

This, of course, occurred in Portland, and should have been duly chronicled by the other papers, so that the people could have seen the rather remarkable coincidence of events transpiring in [illegible] and other great cities. I judge from the following, which I clip from the N. Y. Weekly Tribune of March 5th, that the "fashions of our Eastern cities" are being adopted in Portland, sure enough.

"A Baltimore lady who had been greatly annoyed by mischievous urchins who rang her door bell and then made off, made a bad mistake one afternoon recently. She lay in wait for them, and soon came a step on the porch and a vigorous jerk on the bell. She cried out, 'I see you, you little rascal!' caught the unresisting figure by the coat collar, and shook him vigorously. When her strength was nearly exhausted, and hoarse with excitement, she discovered to her horror that it was the diminutive minister of her church, very red in the face, and very short for breath. An explanation followed."

I do hope all of our local reporters will hereafter endeavor to "be around" enough to keep us posted as to the drift of things, and thus keep our Portland papers up to a high standard as reliable chroniclers of IMPORTANT NEWS.

A young girl named Lottie Dougherty recently died at Millville, N. J., from the effects of a wound sustained by her during a successful effort to save the lives of nearly a thousand people. In August last, according to the Millville Republican, the deceased, while occupying the post of telegraph operator at Eagle Station, on the line of the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, was placed in a position of responsibility which might have proved too much for most men. During a fearful thunder storm, an immense tree was struck by lighting and thrown across the railroad track. Almost at the same moment the telegraph apparatus was disabled. Finding it impossible to send a messenger to warn the approaching train of danger, the brave girl seized a red lamp, and ran up the line swinging it above her head. The engineer saw the signal in time to avoid a fearful disaster. The engine ran against the tree, however, with sufficient force to disconnect a heavy branch, which struck the girl on the shoulder, and inflicted the injuries that resulted in her death. The passengers were so grateful for their escape that an attempt was immediately made to reward her, but she firmly declined to accept anything for having done her duty. Such acts of personal heroism should not be allowed to go unrewarded, and the men and women who were on the train that August night might have now an opportunity to mark their appreciation of poor Lottie's bravery by causing a handsome monument to be erected to her memory.

LIABILITIES OF TELEGRAPH COMPANIES.—In the Supreme Court of Illinois on Friday, the liability of the telegraph companies was decided. James Tyler, of Chicago, telegraphed by the Western Union Telegraph Company to John Wren, of New York, to purchase 100 shares of Western Union stock. The message was transmitted and received 1,000 shares. Tyler brought suit for damages and recovered in the lower court only $2 60, the cost of the message. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court, which decided that the court below erred in over ruling the motion for a new trial. Judge Breeze, who delivered the opinion of the court held that the stipulations limiting the liability of the telegraph company, printed on the message and signed by the person sending it, was not a contract, and that the company was liable for all negligence and failure to transmit the message correctly, and that such a contract is unjust, unconscionable, without consideration, and utterly void. He further held that the company was a public servant, to which the States had given the right of domain, and protected their rights by severe penalties for violation, that telegraphy had become very perfect, and an error could only occur from atmospheric pressure or the incompetency of operators, and the inefficiency of instruments, all of which the company could prevent, and for which, in the perfect state of telegraphy, they ought to be held responsible. The case was remanded to the Circuit Court for another trial.

"Ma, why don't you speak," asked little Jake. "Why don't you say something funny?" "What can I say. Don't you see I'm busy frying doughnuts." Say something funny, indeed!" "Wal, yer might say, Jake, won't yer hev a cake? That would be funny for you."

'Stabat Mater.'

TRANSLATION OF THE OLD LATIN HYMN.

The Rev Geo Alexander Crooke, D D , D C L , of Dublin, has recently made a translation of the celebrated hymn Stabat Mater. All the stanzas are in the same metre, so that the English translation may be sung to the music of the Latin hymn.

The following is Dr Crooke's translation of the Stabat Mater

Sad the mother kept her station
By the Cross in tribulation
While her Son hung there on high
Through her cheerless soul, bemoaning,
Rent with grief and holy groaning
Pierced the sword of agony

O how sad and sorrow laden
Was that peerless blessed maiden,
Mother of God's only Son
Pangs—some sorer—then swept o'er her
Anguish tore her, as before her
Suffering hung her precious One

Who, unmoved by tenderest feeling,
Could behold her struggling—reeling
'Neath her weight of sorrow sore
Who could view unsympathizing,
That fond mother agonizing
With the child she bore before

For the sins of her own nation
She beheld Him an oblation
And with scourges bruised and torn
Him once in her bosom lying
She beheld in torments, dying,
All forsaken and forlorn

Mother fountain of affection,
Fill me with a deep dejection
That my tears with thine may flow,
Make my heart be ever glowing
With the eye to Jesus owing,
That His favor I may know.

Holy mother this boon grant thou
In my heart the wounds implant thou
Deeply of the Crucified
For me wailing, He bore railing,
Ruthless railing, dread impelling,
So, with me His pangs divide.

Let my sorrow, true and thorough,
Blend with thine till my last morrow,
For His sad life's fearful close,
By the Cross I'd join thy station,
Freely share thy desolation—
All thy sorrows—all thy woes.

Maiden, of all maidens glorious
May those pleadings be victorious,
Make me to lament with thee,
In my vision, with precision,
Keep my SAVIOUR's mournful mission,
Wounds, and death, and agony

Let His painful wounding smite me,
Let the daily Cross delight me,
All for love of thy dear Son ,
Fired with raptures, from thee taken,
Then I'd stand, that day unshaken,
When the Judgment is begun.

Let my SAVIOUR's Cross and passion
Be my stay and preservation,
By the comforts of His grace,
When the grave shall ope its portal,
Grant then to my soul immortal
In God's Paradise a place!

A Sad Story.

A BROTHER'S VENDETTA FOR A SISTER'S HONOR—DRAMATIC SCENE IN THE TOMBS POLICE COURT.

[From the New York Times, April 6]

On Friday evening officer Jefferson, of the Fifth Precinct, while on post in Greenwich street, heard a woman's voice appealing for help, apparently in the direction of the Desbrosses Street Ferry. He at the same time saw a man rush through Greenwich street, when he immediately arrested him. A fashionably-dressed young lady then came up and said that the prisoner had drawn a pistol, and threatened to shoot her. The officer brought the parties to the Station-House, and Captain Petty locked up the man, who gave his name as James Lennox, an engineer, residing at Trenton, N. J., to answer the charge of threatening to shoot. On searching the prisoner an ivory-mounted and loaded revolver was found in his possession. Later in the evening the girl's brother came to the Station-House, and the story behind the arrest became known.

Five years ago the prisoner, James Lennox, whose parents are wealthy residents of Trenton, paid his addresses to Miss Margaret Carroll, of Jersey City, who was then but sixteen years old. They decided to get married, and one evening went to the residence of Father Cassidy for that purpose. With Miss Carroll were her sister, her mother, and father. Father Cassidy was unable to perform the ceremony at the moment, and directed them to come a week later. They appointed an evening, and left. In the interim Miss Carroll was dishonored by Lennox, and when the evening appointed came, it was discovered that he had fled to Trenton. James Carroll, brother of the betrayed girl, who was a clerk in a hotel, and who had never seen Lennox, went to the residence of the latter in Trenton, but Lennox escaped by a rear window, while Carroll entered at the street door.

Giving up his business, the brother followed Lennox, for three years and a half, visiting Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, New Orleans, Galveston, the Mississippi river towns, Cuba, and even South America, but without finding the fugitive. In the meantime a child was born, and given to Lennox's parents, and the mother has not seen the boy since. The poor girl, ostracized from the society in which she had moved, never left her house, and is now consumptive.

On Friday evening, some lady friends asked her to go to the Theatre Comique, in this city, and after a great deal of persuasion she consented to do so. Just as she entered the theatre she saw Lennox standing at the door. On her speaking to him he said he did not know her, but finally admitted that he did. He walked with her to the Desbrosses Street Ferry, and there attempted to leave her, but she caught him by the collar. He drew his pistol, and said: "If you do not let me go, I will blow your brains out." She screamed, and Officer Jefferson caught Lennox as he was running away.

As already described, when arraigned before Judge Dowling, yesterday, Lennox behaved with the greatest indifference. For some unexplained reason, Judge Dowling did not enter the complaint of threatening to shoot, but limited the charge to one of seduction. It soon became evident that the offence, having been committed five years ago, was barred by the statute of limitations, and was really out of the reach of the law. Lennox was remanded, however, in order to allow Miss Carroll time to procure a warrant in New Jersey. This was found impossible because of the case being outlawed, and when the case came up again in the afternoon, an effort was made by the magistrate to induce Lennox to marry the girl. James Carroll remained with the other sister in the examination room, while Judge Dowling brought Margaret Carroll and Lennox into his private office. Before they left the examination room, Margaret said "I don't want any support. I don't want him to live with me; all I want is that he give his name to my child." In a few minutes after Judge Dowling came out of the private room and said:

"I have made the proposition, and he refuses."

At these words, James Carroll's hand went rapidly to his breast and he half rose from his chair. Justice Dowling noticed the movement, and exclaimed:

"Have you got a pistol there?"

Carroll made no reply, but turned toward the door through which Lennox was to re-enter the room.

Judge Dowling jumped over the table and took a loaded six-chambered revolver from Carroll.

"It is lucky you did it, sir," said Carroll, "for I would have shot him." Lennox then entered the room, followed by the unfortunate girl, who was crying bitterly. James Carroll said:

"Will you marry her?—say yes, or no. She does not want to live with you, does not want a penny from you, and you can get a divorce after you marry her."

Lennox did not even turn his head, but replied: "I want to know what legal grounds there are for my detention. I refuse to do any such thing."

James Carroll became quite excited, and exclaimed passionately: "I know you now. I hunted you for three years and a half, not knowing you. I would have killed you here to-day, and I tell you now that I will follow you to your grave, and I'll shoot you like a dog."

Judge Dowling, turning to Lennox said, "You miserable wretch, I am compelled to discharge you."

Lennox slunk out of the room, and, jumping into a carriage, drove away. James Carroll went at once to Remington's store and bought a revolver and a box of cartridges. Such was the denouement of a scene in the Tombs yesterday. The threat of the infuriated brother may some day be carried into effect.

You will find this a good gauge or criterion of genius, whether it progresses and revolves, or only spins upon itself.—Coleridge.

Picking out a Wife

BY JOSH BILLINGS.

Find a girl that is nineteen years old last May, about the right height, with a blue eye and dark brown hair and white teeth

Let the girl be good to look at, not to phond of musik, a firm disbeleaver in ghosts and ov six children in the same family.

Look well to the karakter of her father, see that he iz not the member of enny club, don't bet on elekshuns, and gits shaved at least three times a week

Find out all about her mother, see if she haz got a heap ov good common sense, studdy well her likes and dislikes, eat sum ov her hum made bread and apple-dumplins, notiss whether she abuses all ov her nabors, ask her servants how long they have lived thare, and don't fail tew observe whether her dresses are last year's ones fixt over

If yu are satisfied that the mother would make the right kind ov a mother in law yu can safely konklude that the dauter would make the right kind ov a wife.

After these preliminaries are all settled, and yu hav done a reasonable amount ov sparking, ask the young lady for heart and hand, and if she refuzes, yu can consider yourself euchered.

If, on the contrary, she should say yes, git married at once, without enny fuss and feathers, and proceed to take the chances.

I say take the chances, for thare ain't no resipee for a perfekt wife, enny more than thare iz for a perfekt husband.

There iz just as menny good wives as thare iz good husbands, and I never knew two people married or single, who were determined tew make themselves agreeable tew each other, but what they sukceeded

Name your oldest boy some good stout name, not after some hero, but should the first boy be a girl, I ask it as a favor to me that yu kaul Rebeckker.

I do want some ov them good old-fashioned tuff girl names revived and extended

A Funny Mistake.

A married Johnny went marching home blind drunk the other night, and thought he was climbing into the window of his house, but got into the hog pen instead, where a fat porker lay quietly snoozing. Taking off his clothes he hung them over the trough, and laid him down beside his "Betsy," as he thought. After grumbling awhile at Betsy for breathing so loud, he began feeling around for the cover, and soliloquized:

"Mighty curus. Kiver must 'a fallen on er floor—prob'bly unner bed. I say, ol' ooman, how y'r got yerself fixed? Bess feels offel curus—brissels! zis is a ermarkable concurrence! Old gal 'as sadly changed sins las' we met. Wunner werezer'ed. (Gets hold of the hog's tail) Ha ha-hic-I zay, Bess, now y'r got y'r hair fixed? Beats all—twis'ed, squirled-hic-like a heathen Chinee Le's unwrap it. It's tighter'n'ell—so 'm I. Disgustin way to wear hair. Don' care a d—n if its style or not—'s got to come down. Say, where's y'r nose? Strange—you had a nose. Now look y'r, old ooman, this-hic-d—n foolishness's perceeded fur nuff. Perduce that nose or 'll ki-hic-you outer bed."

The man's wife, attracted by the noise, appeared upon the scene at this critical moment, and managed to get her inebriated lord into the house, he muttering the while:

"'At's not right, Bess—take 'vantage my feeble condishun to turn me outer house an home. Be sorry for zis w'n y'r got hic-sober."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

TUESDAY EVENING, April 24, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 117¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 86 buying; 87 selling

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine.

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California, 11s 6d@11s 7d; club 11s 10d@12s.

Since our last comments made in regard to local finances but the slightest change has taken place and we note no better state of feeling. To day merchants and others complain that the monetary stringency is more oppressive than it was at the middle of February or the beginning of March and while we may not coincide with this opinion there is but little room to doubt that we are far from a state of plenty financially as a community. Merchants as a class are those on whom the tightness presses hardest and when their complaint is as general as it is at present, he is blind indeed to the signs of the times who does not become convinced that this class are in many instances doing a very close business, carrying large stocks, having thousands and thousands of dollars worth of long standing accounts on their books and yet closely pressed to meet their liabilities. In many cases this pressure is much increased because these same men have been for years practicing the

and are therefore unable to collect their actual assets. There are men who are reckoned by the public to be worth tens of thousands, and whose business warrants that belief, who we are informed would go to the wall if pressed for as many hundreds ready cash We would not be understood that all or a majority of Oregon merchants are of this class, for we have many men in mercantile pursuits who have transacted business for years, and from experience have learned to husband their resources for just such a monetary crisis as our country is passing through, and by avoiding these long-time sales are always ready at a few days' notice to so arrange matters as to glide through the storm safely, while all along their pathway are scattered the financial wrecks caused by illegitimate transactions, wild speculations, and an indiscriminate system of giving credit

Home Produce Market.

The week specially under review to day, has been one in which it has been most difficult to give a very accurate report of transactions and rates Prices in some commodities have been very fluctuating, and even as between dealers there have been frequent discrepancies as to quotations they have severally felt inclined to furnish. Trade has generally been fair, but not above average.

WHEAT—The market has retained an unusual state of quiet during the entire week, as exporters are making no efforts to secure any lots and millers generally are well supplied, many of the latter being now only running their mills on short time. Quotations are given at $1 50 per cental; The receipts of the past few days have been fair, and we learn that a considerable lot will be shipped by the outgoing steamer to-morrow to complete a cargo being made up there.

FLOUR—The market is dull and prices show no tendency to appreciate. Agents of most of our State mills are in full supply, and owing to the reported dullness of the San Francisco market it looks rather discouraging for holders. We quote the best of extra of standard brands jobbing at $5 per barrel; outside and country brands at $4 25@4 50; superfine, $4

OATS—During the week, prices have reached as high a figure as 75 cents per bushel, but at this writing under advices from San Francisco, prices have dropped to 65 cents. The amount received has been larger in the aggregate than was expected; hence dealers here are well supplied, and with no unusual demand prices may yet go lower still The causes of the decline in San Francisco are said to be the wide spread of the horse disease, and the shipments by rail from Omaha

BREADSTUFFS—Graham flour is quiet and prices steadily maintained at $2 50@2 75 ℔ bale of 100 lbs; Buckwheat flour, but little doing, quotable dull at $5 50 ℔ cwt; Oatmeal, well supplied and market inactive, choice Oregon rolling at 5½c ℔ lb in 10 lb sacks and 6½c in 60 lb sacks.

BARLEY—There has been no unusual movement in the market, and prices have been well maintained without much disposition to advance or recede. Our former quotations are renewed at $1 40 for common and $1 60 for choice ℔ 100 lbs including sacks

FEED—Full rates prevail and with a fair demand, both local and for export Dealers seem to be rather disinclined to desire large orders, believing that the chances are good for an advance. Quotations are however but little changed since our last review Bran is firm at $18@20 ℔ ton, Chops, Middlings, etc , at $27 50@30 and Shorts, $28@30 Trade is fair.

HAY—The local demand is fair for the season and prices rather firm We quote good baled Timothy on the wharves at $16@18 ℔ ton. For wild there is no demand, and it is dull at $8@9

APPLES—Under advices from San Francisco prices have very materially advanced, and shippers are free buyers of the best varieties at $1 50 ℔ box, but lots of inferior quality sell from wagons at much less, say 2@2½c ℔ lb The receipts are limited

POTATOES—The market is very dull, and it would be a difficult matter to place a large lot at a price which would pay expenses. Farmers dislike to sell at less than 40 cents per bushel, it paying better to feed them to stock; yet, without being advised, some have sold at less,—being in the market with their products and not wishing to haul them home again

ONIONS—Our latest advices indicate a good market in San Francisco, prices there being quoted at 6 cents per pound Trade here is quiet and we hear of no offer above 3 cents

EGGS—Another time of abundance has begun, and large lots are offering at low rates Jobbers sell at 18c, and pay 16c ℔ dozen The consequence of low prices will be that country merchants will hold back large lots until the supply here is exhausted and prices come up, then thousands of dozens will be placed on the market, many of them stale, and rates will drop as suddenly again

BUTTER—The quality is growing better on an average for which there is ample room Quotations range from 15@25c ℔ lb for cooking to 30@37c for best fresh dairy for table use The supply is not short

BACON—There is more tone to the general market, out of sympathy with the Eastern advance yet the improvement here is not very noticeable, for the reason that trade is light and business dull The jobbers very generally complain of restricted sales of bacon hams, lard etc No large quantities of sides could be placed here at more than 10 cents per pound, but jobbers sell at 11@11½ for small lots We quote shoulders at 9c and hams, 14@20c per pound.

LARD—A better feeling seems to be experienced, though quotations still remain at 10@11c per lb in kegs, and 12@13c in tins.

FRESH MEATS—Prices remain uniformly as given last week,—the demand being well supplied.

POULTRY—We note a fair demand with choice lots of hens commanding $4@4 50 per dozen, inferior $3 50@4

HIDES—We note no change since our last reports The receipts are large, and there is less disposition to buy, under advices by mail from the East Dealers and shippers are more chary in making large orders at current rates

WOOL—There is as yet but very little doing in this market, as there are no buyers here from the East It is now claimed that many who bought largely last year have carried over heavy stocks and that prices here will not open at more than 18@20c per lb.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to DR GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces, furred tongue, feted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
